

A high quality wet blue product is obtained by very accurately selecting raw skins. The raw material comes from various regions known for the quality all over Greece, is carefully inspected and store in refrigerators until working processes in order to achieve the best qualitative results.